

Building Overpass at NS Rail Yard in Stages

Closing Brush College Road

- If only constructing overpass at the NS rail yard, overpass could be built in stages to keep road open.
- Limited width between CN track and St. John's Cemetery may not allow overpass on the north side of Faries Parkway to be built in stages.
- The feasibility of keeping Brush College Road open south of Faries Parkway during construction is still being evaluated.

Staging vs. Closing Road

- Building the overpass in stages might allow the roadway to remain open, but overall construction duration could be twice as long as closing the road and building the entire overpass at one time.
- Using staged construction may add 40% or more to the cost of the project.
- Traffic congestion will most likely occur if a portion of the roadway remains open during construction. Motorists may choose a different route.
